ANNUAL MESSAGE

Of the President of the United States to Congress.

A Calm, Dispassionate and Conservative Discussion of the Cuban Question—National Governmental Affairs Discussed.

The Late Elections.

THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES. As representatives of the people in the legislative branch of their government you have a right to know the views of the President on the various questions which have come before him during the past year. It is his duty to give you a full and complete report of his administration, and to give you his views on the various questions which have come before him during the past year.

Constitutional Requirements. In obedience to a constitutional requirement, I have submitted to the Congress certain information concerning national affairs, the suggestion of which is in my opinion necessary and expedient. I have also submitted to the Congress certain information concerning the various questions which have come before me during the past year.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

The Armenian Massacres. At the outset of a reference to the more important matters affecting our relations with foreign powers I would afford no occasion for misunderstanding by stating that the condition in Asiatic Turkey had during the past year assumed a more serious aspect, and that, as a consequence of the Armenian massacres, the result of the action on the part of the United States has been to interfere with the protection of those exposed to the most serious dangers.

Instead, however, of welcoming a national disposition of protection, the United States has been forced to take action in order to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens.

Our efforts in this direction will not be relaxed, but the feeling and sympathy that have been aroused among our people cannot be denied. It is our duty to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens.

A state of affairs has been created in the Turkish empire which has led to the most serious consequences. It is our duty to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens.

Our efforts in this direction will not be relaxed, but the feeling and sympathy that have been aroused among our people cannot be denied. It is our duty to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens, and to protect the lives of our citizens.

BROKE HIS ARM.

But It Happened Six Weeks Ago.

Dr. Frank Boyd was awakened about midnight last evening and called to attend a man at one of the hotels with a broken arm.

He sleepily donned his garments and gathered together an armful of splints, bandages and other essential articles and went down through the rain. When he arrived he was shown the man, who did not seem to have a broken arm, although it seemed to be giving him great pain.

"When did you break it?" inquired the doctor.

"About six weeks ago," was the reply.

The man only wanted an opiate, and he got it in large chunks.

Charity Ball.

We take pleasure in mentioning the charity ball that is to be given at the Palmer House on the 16th. Every one is very much interested and there will doubtless be some beautiful new costumes worn by the fair sex. It always speaks well for a city when its people interest themselves in charity. It shows enterprise, ambition and prosperity; a warmth of heart that encourages other good people to "come and dwell amongst us." Let every one lend their aid to this cause and give a ball that the city will be proud to remember.

The proceeds are to be donated to the "Geneya" fund, which as all residents know is a fund organized several years ago in order to give the children of the poor a merry Christmas time, distributing toys and good things so dear to the childish heart and appetite. This year the same plan is to be pursued, get some hall or vacant store room, on Broadway if possible, and have a Christmas tree with all its attendant delights.

LIKE KILKENNY CATS.

Another Shanty Boat Fight Investigated.

Mrs. Sue Eggleston, her husband, Elmer, Maggie Roush and George Campbell, who live on shanty boats in Island creek, were in the police court this morning charged with engaging in a fight near the mouth of Island creek yesterday afternoon.

Judge Sanders "roasted" the two women, but let the men down easy. He said they were a bad lot, especially the Eggleston woman, who comes of bad stock. Maggie Roush is a pretty and respectable looking girl, but like old dog Tray, she is in bad company.

The fight that took place yesterday was a corker. It originated between George Campbell and the Eggleston woman, and after they had skinned each other, assisted by Maggie Roush, Elmer Eggleston arrived and he and Campbell renewed the difficulty.

Judge Sanders said he sympathized with Eggleston in having to pay his wife's fines, and fined her $10 and costs, and Eggleston and Maggie Roush $5 and costs each. He said he would give them until noon to execute a bond of $100 to keep the peace, and if they did not do so by that time he would consider the propriety of recognizing them for their good behavior. The case against Campbell was dismissed, it having been shown that he acted in the defensive.

The women and Eggleston all repented their fines this morning and Judge Sanders recognized them for their good behavior.

A BAD CASE.

Young Post Office Robbers Lodged In Jail.

Deputy United States Marshal Bullington, whose departure for Calhoun county after post office raiders was announced exclusively in the Sun yesterday, returned late in the afternoon with the three prisoners charged in the warrant with robbing post office at Brown's Grove, Calhoun county, on the night of November Eleventh last.

Their names are, Andy and Oatman Sanders and Orey Turnbow. They are all young men of the neighborhood, and entered the post office by breaking in the rear door. J. H. Brown is postmaster, and the following morning raised about $25 worth of stamps, and $1.75 of money order cash and some groceries.

Mr. J. W. Lloyd, a well known citizen of the section, saw the young men when they carried their booty to Jake Turnbow's barn, and they afterwards offered him $50 to not inform on them. Learning that he intended to expose them they burned Turnbow's barn and skipped out, the loss being $1,000. The recent federal grand jury found indictments against them all.

Andy Sanders was taken before U. S. Commissioner J. R. Puryear yesterday afternoon and gave a preliminary hearing, admitting his guilt. He was held over and in default of bond went to jail.

The other two men were arraigned before Commissioner Puryear this morning at 8 o'clock and also held, going to jail to await the next April term of the U. S. court.

Another lady sounds her praise for Romendo Tonic. All you people that suffer likewise will try it when too late.

Mrs. J. L. Putnam, No. 234 Adams street, says: "Romendo Tonic is indeed a fine medicine, and I advise all the ladies here in Paducah to try Romendo Tonic. It has helped me wonderfully. I have had pains in my back so bad that I could not sleep at night for the past year, and have been of a nervous temperament all my life; so bad that I could not thread a needle. I was weak, had no appetite, and I had tried all the patent medicines and could not get any relief. I had begun to think that nothing would give me relief. Some few weeks ago I saw the advertisement of Romendo Tonic in the paper, and bought a $1 bottle for 25 cents, and I can truthfully say that after the use of one bottle it effected was wonderful, and now my nervousness is all gone. I can thread a needle, my pains are all gone, my appetite has improved—in fact I feel like a new woman, and feel glad to call at the company's office and add my name to the many others on file, and hope all my friends will try one bottle."

Mrs. J. L. PUTNAM.

Is 11 Years Old and Weighs 145 Pounds.

Speaking of large people, one of the largest boys in the city, and perhaps the state, for his age, is the 11-year-old son of Mr. J. L. Webb, of South Eleventh street.

He weighs 145 pounds, although but eleven years of age, and what is so remarkable he keeps growing.
